California Highway Patrol (CHP) Impressed by Tuscany Fit and Finish

Lima, Ohio – September 17, 2008 - Members of the California Highway Patrol, in conjunction with Folsom Lake Ford of Folsom, CA, recently participated in a two-hour walk-through inspection tour of a Ford E-350 modified by Tuscany/Accubuilt, Inc. of Elkhart, Indiana. The group came away with a very positive first impression of the vehicle which was strengthened after their opportunity to compare it to a similarly-equipped van modified by a competitor.

David Harvey, Northwest Regional Sales Manager for Tuscany Automotive, commented, "We were quite pleased with the reaction of the CHP representatives, although we weren't really surprised. All people have to do is take a close look and compare Tuscany's vehicles to those produced by other companies. That usually convinces them of our quality and helps them with their buying decision."

Greg Bragg, CHP Motor Carrier Safety Program Manager, commented, "The fit and finish were excellent. Probably every other law enforcement agency will want something like this when they hear about this van!" After the inspection, Bragg felt confident in recommending that Tuscany proceed with production of an additional 45-unit order for the CHP.

Tuscany also produces vans for the Indiana State Police, as well as a variety of other specialty vehicles for consumer and commercial use.

Tuscany is part of the Truck & Van Division of Accubuilt, Inc., which is the world's largest and most diverse manufacturer of Specialty Vehicles. With corporate headquarters in Lima, Ohio and production facilities in Springfield, Missouri and Elkhart, Indiana, they have both an extensive history and a bright future.
